Gabriel Oquin is an Associate at Slattery Petersen PLLC. Mr. Oquin concentrates his practice in healthcare, product liability, and personal injury defense. His medical negligence and healthcare practice focuses on defending hospitals, clinics, physicians, nurses, and other healthcare professionals in complex claims with significant damages. His product liability practice focuses on defending automotive and consumer product manufacturers.

Mr. Oquin also has significant class action and commercial litigation experience, which includes litigating complex, multimillion-dollar construction defect cases in state court and arbitration. Through this experience, he has managed cases and client interactions, taken and defended depositions, served and responded to discovery requests, worked through various discovery disputes, drafted motions and briefs, and examined witnesses at arbitration.

Mr. Oquin began his legal career as a law clerk at the Arizona Court of Appeals for the Honorable Judge Maria Elena Cruz, where he gained valuable experience observing oral arguments, discussing legal issues with Judge Cruz and other law clerks, presenting to three-judge panels, and writing and suggesting revisions to draft opinions.
